

MEDITERRANEAN MYTHOLOGIES

Illustration / visual research.
2025-ongoing.

Gorgons, Sirens, and Scylla were published in the peer-reviewed journal gender/sexuality/italy in the special issue New Queer South (2025).

Scylla, Sirens and Gorgons extends the research developed through Postcards from Sicily, bringing its exploration of monstrous, animal, and mythological figures into dialogue with Greek mythology rooted in Sicily.

Through illustration, the work traces local cultural genealogies of otherness and explores how collective imaginaries are shaped by place, history, and myth. Mythology becomes a way of engaging with ecological and territorial memory, approaching mythological beings as mediators between human and more-than-human worlds.

The work draws from feminist and decolonial perspectives on monstrosity, Southern identity, and the construction of otherness, while engaging with Greek mythology as a situated cultural genealogy rooted in Mediterranean territories.